After his role in the integration of Little Rock Central High School amid the tumult of 1957, Dr. Terrence Roberts completed his education in California and Illinois, receiving a Ph.D. in Psychology at Southern Illinois University. For forty years he has taught psychology at the college level, often maintaining a private clinical practice concurrently. Today he owns a consulting firm and travels extensively speaking about our shared history, promoting socially responsible behavior and tolerance in our daily lives. He is the author of Lessons From Little Rock and the newly released Simple, Not Easy, which will be available for purchase and author signing immediately following the presentation.

All families and faculty from our school communities are welcome. We recommend children be at least 9 years old.
Refreshments provided by First United Methodist Church.

Please RSVP to The Wesley School: tanderson@wesleyschool.org
